Hannah Arendt > Quotes > Quotable Quote. "Education is the point at which we decide whether we love the world enough to assume responsibility for it, and by the same token save it from that ruin which except for renewal, except for the coming of the new and the young, would be inevitable. And education, too, is where we decide whether we love our children enough not to expel them from our world and leave them to their own devices, nor to strike from their hands their chance of undertaking ...

(PDF) Defending a Common World: Hannah Arendt on the State ...

Toward the end of her life, Hannah Arendt's philosophical project centered on an explication of three mental faculties: thinking, willing, and judgment. An interpretation of Arendt's views on judgment and education that suggests that "education for judgment" is neither possible nor appropriate is troubling in light of the importance that she places on political equality.
